ANNOUNCEMENT OF ORGANIZATIONAL CHANGE
NATIONAL FOREIGN ASSESSMENT CENTER

No Field Counterpart to this HN

1. Effective 15 September 1980, the Office of Geographic and Cartographic Research is redesignated the Office of Geographic and Societal Research (OGSR). At the same time, the Environment and Resource Analysis Center is redesignated the Environment and Resource Analysis Division (ERAD).

2. Effective 1 October 1980, the Social Sciences Research Division (SSRD) is established as a new division in OGSR. Its mission is to conduct research on the social, cultural, demographic, and resource factors that affect societal change and political stability in key countries and regions of the world, with primary emphasis on the Third World. The division consists of four branches: Asia, Western Hemisphere/Europe, Middle East/Africa, and Human Resources (formerly Food and Population).

3. Effective 1 October 1980, the Geography Division is redesignated the Geographic Research Division (GRD). Its mission is to produce all-source geographic intelligence with primary emphasis on locational research, terrain analysis, military geography, and technical and operational intelligence support. The division consists of three branches: East Asia, Middle East/Africa/Western Hemisphere, and USSR/Europe.
